

Network for Veterinary Humanities/Social Sciences

The field of veterinary medicine has long been overlooked by the humanities and the social sciences. Meanwhile, also due to the emergence of the interdisciplinary human-animal studies as well as the growing discourse of veterinary ethics, more and more research is looking at veterinary issues from the perspective of the humanities /social sciences. We would like to use this opportunity to connect with fellow researchers and built up a network of scholars working on topics surrounding veterinary medicine. This could be, including but not limited, scholars from sociology, history, anthropology, philosophy or veterinary medicine itself who look at the discipline/the profession from other than only the natural scientific angle.

The start of the network will be an email-list, but further developments such as building a website, meetings or conferences are not excluded and depend also on the initiative of network members. If you want to join the email-list please subscribe here (if you already have an google-account) <https://groups.google.com/forum/#!forum/veterinary-humanities> or answer to this mail with a request to be added. Please forward the email also to other colleagues who might be interested to join.

Kind regards

Kerstin Weich & Julia Gutjahr

MMag. Kerstin Weich
Senior Lecturer
Fachtierärztin für Tierschutz
Unit of Ethics and Human-Animal Studies
Messerli Research Institute
University of Veterinary Medicine,
Medical University of Vienna and University of Vienna
Veterinärplatz 1
1210 Vienna, Austria

Julia Gutjahr (Dipl. Soziologin)
PhD Student

University of Hamburg
Faculty of Business, Economics and Social Sciences
Department of Social Sciences - Sociology
Group for Society and Animals Studies

Allende Platz 1
20146 Hamburg, Germany